

Show them all.

Autodesk® Facility Web software enables widespread visual sharing of important facility information through the Internet or your corporate intranet. Browser-based and easy to learn, Facility Web makes it simple for team members who don't use computer-aided design (CAD) software to mark up facility drawings and data without the need for extra training, software, or other expenditures.

Tell the World

Easy access keeps everybody intimately linked to facility process, making for management progress. Appropriate team members access up-to-date facility drawings and associated data at any time through basic web browsers. Create and control your own web application and let everybody know about it.

Show Your Smarts

Select and highlight rooms, equipment, and occupants through your existing intelligent drawings. Display information on the Internet or your organization's intranet. No more secrets.

Draw the Line

With the included Autodesk® DWF™ Viewer, users can electronically revise, save, and globally distribute important drawings in lightweight DWF™ format. With the purchase of Autodesk® Design Review, team members can use intuitive markup tools to quickly and easily annotate drawings and precisely point out existing and potential facility problems without the need for CAD software knowledge.

Web Wizard

The Facility Web publishing wizard is a stand-alone website creation tool. With optional security and scheduled updates, you control what, when, and where information is posted. Multiple sites serve different groups on a need-to-know basis.

FMDesktop Components

Autodesk® FMDesktop includes three additional components to complement Autodesk Facility Web and provide a complete solution for your facility management needs.

Autodesk® Facility Manager

Manage all facility drawings and data in one database environment. Query, pan, zoom, print, and share facility drawings and data.

Autodesk® Facility Link

Connect objects in your facility drawings to records in the Autodesk FMDesktop database through an intuitive interface.

Autodesk® Facility Request

Help your facility occupants enter service requests ranging from corrective maintenance to moves.
